We've been blessed with a welcome, long dry spell of weather which has enabled us to get most of the late vegetable land ploughed. These fields had been abused by the heavy harvesting rigs.

The pools on the wetlands have, at last, gained some water that is attracting some interesting wildfowl. Grey lag and Canada geese, as well as numerous ducks including shovelers, wigeon, teal, mallards, shelducks and gadwalls appear most days. Waders include good flocks of curlews, a couple of snipe and a green sandpiper.

Two song thrushes are now singing every morning at the yard, starting before daylight and woodpigeons are already practicing their summer cooing.

Whilst the weather has been kind to us, we must spare a thought for all those poor folk affected by the terrible earthquakes in Turkey and North Syria. Once again those real extremes occurred many miles away, but the situation is very grave for millions of people left homeless in bitterly cold conditions.

The nights are pulling out now and there's a feel of spring in the air. The grass is still growing and, unless we get one of those periods of cold east winds, turnout for the cattle could be early this year.

The water table is well down so we need some significant rain or another very dry growing period will be a problem again after planting.

Lent – Generous Giving with Purpose

March this year falls entirely in the season of Lent. Historically people talk of what they give up during Lent but that is not supposed to be the focus. It is a time to make sacrifices to bless others, a time to take up a cause to bless. It is sacrificing something to appear virtuous, but also to truly focus on the ones to benefit from making a sacrifice.

It is interesting that this time of year includes Fairtrade fortnight and either “Comic Relief” or “Sports Relief”. But with the cost-of-living crisis what more can be sacrificed? Yet it is at times like this that the need is greatest and we should adopt the mindset of “what would I want me to do if I was struggling?”. Supporting and caring for one another fulfils Christ’s encouragement to Love one another and the apostle Paul’s encouragement to “Be kind and compassionate to each other”.

When we look at the tragedies facing people in Turkey, Syria, Ukraine and Afghanistan we should feel blessed to be recipients of our ancestors’, but try to bless those near and far who are genuinely struggling, even when working hard and supporting others. It is also a time for those who have been richly rewarded to share their blessing with those who have not.

The war generations learnt that working together to support care for one another enabled tremendous creativity and blessing. Their willingness to come together before God and pray also saw miracles happen (Dunkirk being just one such example).

So, on Ash Wednesday (22/2/2023) who are you going to decide to bless this Lent? Jesus showed us that we are more blessed to giving than receiving.

May God bless you with a generous heart this Lent.

Our Beautiful Church

It's the focal point of our community,
un-changed throughout the years.
Our magnificent church brings memories of happy times – and tears...

Its presence is reassuring
as we pass by it each day.
An atmosphere of peace within,
where we can quietly pray...

Some of us were married there,
others meet to chat;
coffee mornings are still popular,
with sales of this and that...

Perhaps we take it for-granted in this busy, whirling world
but when we lose our loved ones,
its value is unfurled...

And now our church needs all of us
to give a little back;
the main heating system's broken down
and funds for repairs we lack...

Let's all contribute if we can
to help with the repair.
The church is there for all of us.
Let's show the church we care.

Highways

There was no update regarding the Zebra crossing request as County Cllr Skinner was not present. Following discussion it was resolved to ask the Borough Council for evidence of the work done to get the lowest electricity prices for the street lighting. The roads have been cleaned by a local company, a letter of thanks will be sent. The culvert at Joy Hill is still blocked causing flooding in the field, LCC will be asked to get this matter sorted out.
