After the long, dry spell the frequent rains are now becoming quite a challenge. It is getting late to drill spring cereals and they used to say “cuckoo barley” is no good. Let’s hope this familiar spring arrival holds off for a bit. I saw my first clutch of young birds on 11th April – 7 coot chicks on the clay pit, the parents diving down to bring up weed to pass to the small black puff-balls with red caps.

Our marsh harriers have just returned from warmer climes, after breeding successfully last summer. They are more streamlined and agile than the resident buzzards. The lovely yellow brimstone butterflies, mostly the first to appear, have now been joined by a few peacocks and several bumble bees. Rook numbers seem to be increasing annually. We have many rookeries in the village now and the birds, quite wary for most of the year, are now prepared to make their nests much lower and often near to houses. With their pick axe like bills they can soon uproot a significant amount of freshly drilled corn.

Song thrushes have stopped singing and blackbirds have now started. I expect to see a swallow any time and I hope there are many more than last year. Robins and wrens continue to entertain us with their shrill clear voices.

Muntjac deer are becoming quite tame and make us aware of their presence by their sharp barking at dusk. I’m getting a few sparrows back now after several weeks without any – mostly house sparrows.

By the time this edition is out it will soon be local council elections, quickly followed by King Charles III Coronation. This will be a truly spectacular ceremony and something most of the population will not have witnessed before.

Crown Him

In this season of Easter we are aware of Jesus' crowning glory with the crown of thorns before his crucifixion, before conquering death to be the risen and ascended King of Glory. Christians celebrate the rising of the King of Kings and the promise of life in this world, in all its fullness, and life everlasting.

But this year as well as Christians singing "crown him with many crowns" we have the coronation of Charles III as King of the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth, so we will also be singing "Crown Him" as our King.

In this country, as well as a democratic government, we have a family as the custodians of our people. The Royal family spend a lifetime meeting people and are more knowledgeable about the British people than any journalist or politician. Their depth of knowledge and face to face contact with ordinary people is unsurpassed in the world today. At the heart of our British constitution is family. Family is at the heart of government and at the heart of our society. Family is often the most important concern in many people's lives. This means that being British means being family to one another and looking out for one another before ourselves. Like any family we may not agree with one another, but we belong to one another and still care for one another as family even when we may not see eye to eye.

So, as we see Charles III crowned King of our nation, may we also remember Christ the King who encourages us to love and care for one another, to overcome the evils of this world with good and pray "God save the King".

May you continue to enjoy this Easter season rejoicing at the king of kings saving grace for us and enjoy the crowning of a new king.

God Bless You.

Happy Moments and Momentous Occasions

How do you define happiness?

What does it mean to you?

Perhaps helping others brings you contentment too...

When did you last feel happy?

What memory makes you smile?

If life's been a challenge lately enjoy 'happy moments' for a while...

Gratitude is something so easily dismissed.

What are you grateful for today?

Gratitude can go 'out the door'
when life gets in the way...

This month brings the Coronation.

Much has changed since '53,
when we celebrated our new Queen.

With gratitude we celebrate the peaceful years between.

The Parish Council pay for the electricity, but have no say in the seeking of contracts. The answers to other questions were not adequate and a response is awaited from the Climate Change and Environment Officer. The pot holes in Sea Lane, towards the Sailors Home, are in need of repair, the grass verge is being used to get around them. The speed sign seems to be needing to be charged too often, this will be monitored. The data could not be retrieved for February, if the same goes for March then the supplier will be contacted for advice as to what is going wrong.

Cllr Ashton expressed thanks to Cllr Danby, who will retire at the election in May, for the work he has done for and on behalf for the Parish and the Parish Council during his lengthy time serving Wrangle. His knowledge, help and advice for all Councillors who have served alongside him has been invaluable over the years.
